Loesje is an international girl with friends and connections all over the world.

She wants people to get active, think and react on everything that happens around us.

She believes that everyone has something to say about the world we live in.

Loesje spreads her ideas and thoughts, through posters. In many countries people have formed Loesje groups and write their own texts and spread them in public.

Loesje is constantly expanding and she wants to conquer the world and she hasn't even got weapons.

Anyone is free to join in and help her in her work!
